We have a team of nurses who work with people who have a learning disability.

The nurses work in three different areas:

- physical health
- mental health
- behaviour support

Physical health nurses can help you with:

---

Health action plans

Care passports

Annual health checks with your GP

Coming to healthy living groups

Managing your epilepsy.

Hearing

Sexual health and relationships

Continence problems - going to the toilet

Dysphagia - eating and drinking problems

When you become poorly.

Problems with your memory.
For example, forgetting things
or people important to you.

Help with taking your bloods.

Mental health nurses can help you with:

---

Your feelings and emotions

Check your medication is working properly

Advise on how to keep safe in the community

Your independence

Develop social skills

Prepare and support you at appointments with specialists

Help to manage your mental health

Offer training to staff to support your needs

Positive behaviour support nurses can help you with:

We will work with you and the people important to you to understand your behaviour and any ideas of ways we can help.

Sometimes this will mean working with you to develop new ways of coping.

We can also work with families or others that care and support you. This might mean writing a plan for you to make sure you are supported in the best way.

Provide training to staff and families to support your needs.

We can help to check your medication works properly and is needed.

Help you to do things you enjoy and learn new skills to have a happy life.

Problems, complaints or suggestions

---

Northumberland, Tyne and Wear NHS Foundation Trust has a complaints policy.

We will give you a leaflet about how to make a complaint.

If you think that we could improve our service then please let a nurse know your idea.

Further information about the content, reference sources or production of this leaflet can be obtained from the Patient Information Centre.

This information can be made available in a range of formats on request (eg Braille, audio, larger print, BSL or other languages). Please contact the Patient Information Centre Tel: 0191 223 2545
